The Real Estate Capital Awards Hall of Fame

Blackstone extends its lead at the top of our list of overall awards winners

he Real Estate Capital Hall of Fame keeps a running total of the biggest winners of our awards since they were launched in 2014. US private equity giant Blackstone comfortably retains the top spot, having scooped seven 2020 awards, as both a lender and a borrower, bringing its overall tally to 21.

Bank of America, the winner of two 2020 awards, retains second place, with Dutch bank ING Real Estate Finance, winner of one 2020 award, narrowly remaining in third place.

Insurance company lender Allianz Real Estate may need to get a larger trophy cabinet. It was the biggest climber, with four 2020 awards bringing its tally to nine. Here, we highlight those organisations that have won four awards or more in the past seven years − a cohort that grew from nine to 14, with US bank Goldman Sachs among those joining its ranks. ■
